Introduction

Templates can be used to streamline and maintain consistent language for applicant and new hire correspondence through USA Staffing. Below are a number of examples that can be modified, as needed, when creating notification templates. The eight examples represent standard notification touchpoints for applicants and new hires, however, additional templates can be created for other correspondence needs (e.g., cancellation of a vacancy, failure to receive required documents, etc.). These examples are intended to provide a starting point for developing Agency-specific notification templates and should not be viewed as a final product nor as a requirement for use of the system.

Need to Know

An HR user can select a notification template, when sending applicant and new hire correspondence, which populates the text. When creating custom templates or reviewing the samples below, please note the following:

- A light green text image represents a data insert (e.g., ). A data insert retrieves information from the system and populates that information into the notification.
 - Data inserts will not automatically transfer when you copy and paste the data below. To add a data insert in USA Staffing, click and drag the intended data insert from the Available Data Inserts list and drop in the desired location.
 - More information about data inserts may be found at:
https://help.usastaffing.gov//USAS/index.php?title=Data_Inserts
- Custom, Tentative Offer, and Final Offer Notification Types allow an HR User to edit content prior to sending the notification to the applicant or new hire. All other standard notification types cannot be edited by an HR User.
- Red text enclosed by two brackets represents placeholder or instructional text that must be addressed by a user before posting (e.g., [[INSERT AT LEAST ONE LINE EXPLAINING POSITION]]).
 - If a custom or offer letter notification requires placeholder or instructional text for the HR User, insert placeholder text by clicking the Placeholder text icon (e.g., ) , add the instructional text in the Placeholder Properties window, and click OK.
- Blue underlined text represents a hyperlink to a website (e.g., <https://www.usajobs.gov/>).
 - To create a hyperlink, highlight the text, click the Link icon (e.g., ), insert the appropriate URL, and click OK.
